ARCHITECTURE IN CHINA

A Blend of Tradition and Modernity

SUMMER 2015

Students will study both historical and contemporary iconic buildings in three different regions of Mainland China.

OVERVIEW

China's mass modernization and urbanization effort has created an interesting living lab for students of architecture, landscape and urbanism. The juxtaposition of traditional and modern architecture and the exciting yet challenging city growth offers students a unique opportunity to critically analyze the tension between deeply rooted culture, tradition, and unstoppable trends of globalization. Meanwhile, it allows students to develop comparative analysis to the Western counterparts. The Architecture in China program travels to Shanghai, Nanjing, Suzhou, Beijing, and Shanxi. Students will be exposed to both historical and contemporary iconic buildings. To enrich the learning process, students of the program will also interface with students and professors at a number of Chinese universities.

ITINERARY

Most of the study abroad program will consist of planned group activities along with some free time.

Shanghai (9 days): The program begins in Shanghai, an international mega-metropolis with a population of more than 23 million. It has been a center of commerce and arts between east and west since 1930s. Students will experience the interesting blend of tradition and modernity in Shanghai.

- Traditional architecture: The City God Temple, Yuyuan Garden, Shikumen Shanghai traditional townhouse, Xintiandi, Tianzifang
- Modern architecture: The Bund: Neoclassical HSBC Building, Art Deco: Park Hotel/ László Hudec Peace Hotel, Shanghai Tower/Gensler, Oriental Pearl Tower/Jiang HuanCheng, Jin Mao Tower/SOM, Shanghai World Financial Center/KRF, People's Park, Shanghai Urban Planning Exhibition Center, Shanghai Grand Theatre/ARTE founded by French architect Jean-Marie Charpentier; Shanghai Museum/Xing Tonghe; and Nanjing Xi Pedestrian Street, The Shanghai World Expo: The Shanghai Art Museum, Giant Interactive Group Corporate Headquarters/ Morphosis Architects

Students will also take excursion day trips to Zhujiajiao and Suzhou.

Zhujiajiao (1 day): Zhujiajiao is a water town on the outskirts of Shanghai, and was established about 1,700 years ago. The program will also visit some historical buildings and contemporary Chinese architects' work.

Suzhou (1 day): Students will visit Chinese traditional gardens and visit Suzhou Museum by I.M.Pei.

Nanjing (3 days):

- Participants will visit Southeast University, School of Architecture, and Urban Planning, interact with local professors and students. Students will then visit the Qinhuai area and visit the Confucius Temple.

- Chinese International Modern Architecture and Art Expo is a utopia of experimental architectural practice. It has over twenty unique architectures of different functionalities, including the Sifang Art Museum by Steven Holl, the recreation center by an Italian architect Ettore Sottsass, the conference center by Arata Isozaki, the hotel Monochrome by Jiakun Liu, and several houses and pavilions designed by famous architects.
- Visit the Purple Mountain, Ming Xiaoling Mausoleum, and Dr. Sun Yat-sen Mausoleum.

Beijing (9 days):

- Temple of Heaven, Laoshe Tea House, Houhai, Summer Palace
- Forbidden City, Tiananmen Square, National Center for Performing Arts/Paul Andreu, and National Museum of China/GMP
- Modern architecture: The Olympic Park, including Bird Nest: Beijing National Stadium/Herzog & de Meuron, the Water Cube: National Aquatic Center/Australian PTW, ARUP, and CCDI, the National Indoor Stadium, the new CCTV Tower/OMA Rem Koolhaas, MOMA/ Steven Holl, Galaxy Soho/Zaha Hadid, Xiangshan Hotel/I.M.Pei, Tsinghua University New School of Architecture/Xiaodong Li, Beijing 798 Art Zone, Ullens Center for Contemporary Art
- Great Wall and Commune by the Great Wall, a private collection of contemporary architecture designed by 12 Asian architects: including Bamboo Wall House/Kengo Kuma, Furniture House by Shigeru Ban, and Split House by Yung Ho Chang, and other houses.

Shanxi (4 days):

- Yungang Grottoes and Xuankong Temple, Taiyuan (2 days)
- Jing Ci and Qi Xian County: Qiao Jia Courtyard is the best preserved example of a Chinese northern courtyard house. Scenes from the movie "Raise the Red Lantern" were filmed in the Qiao Jia Courtyard. (1 day)
- The Ancient City of Pingyao: Pingyao is the best ancient walled city in China, with well-preserved buildings since the Ming and Qing dynasties. (1 day)
